BLUE SOX TAME LEXINGTON 7-4, TO PLAY IRVINE

(By Jerry Franklin)

The West Liberty Blue Sox launched an 11 hit, 7 run batting attack behind the superb 6 hit, 14 strikeout pitching of their southpaw ace, Steve Hamilton, to defeat a classy Lexington Parkette nine, 7-4 at League Park in Lexington Sunday. The victory was the second for the Sox this season and also verdict number 2 over Parkette this year, thus moving the local nine into a first place tie with Irvine, who edged Beattyville Sunday 2-1.

Bill Markberry, a sidearming import from Cincinnati, started on the mound for Lexington but was replaced in the top of the sixth after being tabbed for 5 hits and 4 runs through the initial five frames. Kenny Markberry's relief agent, proved even less effective against the Sox, giving up 3 runs and 6 hits in his 4 inning stint.

Big Steve Hamilton opened on the hill for West Liberty and limited the Lexingtonians to 6 hits and 3 earned runs, while mowing down 14 of the Parkette boys through the strikeout medium.

Walter Brown, Blue Sox right-fielder, paced the West Liberty assault with a double and two singles in five tries. Merle Nickell, with a triple and a single and Dudley Caudill with two singles also contributed considerable support in the locals base hit department. Lynn Nickell, Sox second baseman who was injured in a game at Irvine two weeks ago, saw limited action Sunday, but looked about ready to return to full time duty as he smashed a single in two batting attempts.

West Liberty opened the scoring in the first inning as they scored two runs on singles by Brown and Caudill and a dropped pop fly by the Parkette second baseman after colliding with the high flier. The Sox increased it to 4-0 in the top of the fifth as Hammond and M. Nickell walked, took second and third on a wild pitch and then raced to the plate as Caudill hit a single to center.

Parkette tightened the count to 4-2 in the half of the fifth as Carr walked and Smith and Markberry doubled to score a pair of tallies.

West Liberty came back in the sixth with two more as Merle Nickell smashed a triple to right after Lynn Nickell had singled and Hammond had walked. The locals final tally came in the eighth on another free pass to Hammond and two more singles by M. Nickell and R. Stacy.

Parkette concluded the scoring with a run in the sixth on successive doubles by Hunt and Hinkle and an unearned tally in the eighth.

The Blue Sox will battle Irvine here Sunday in a tussel for first place. Irvine holds a 3-2 count over the local nine in the first meeting at Irvine.

The Irvine contest will open a three game home stand for the Blue Sox as they meet Beattyville, here Sunday, June 7 and Lexington here June 16, following Sunday's match with Irvine.

Sunday's game has been proclaimed "Ladies Day" by manager Clarence Black and all ladies will be admitted free.

Game time is 2 p.m. C.S.T.

MISS OWENS WINS BY OVER 100,000

Miss Doris Owens, waging what she called a "poor man's race" against the powerful state organization of Gov. A. B. Chandler, won a smashing victory in her quest for the Democratic nomination for Clerk of the Court of Appeals.

Returns from 2,985 of the state's 4,096 precincts gave Miss Owens 208,730 votes to 98,892 for J. L. (June) Suter, who had the backing of Gov. Chandler.

Miss Owens had commanding majorities in all Congressional districts except in the heavily Republican Eighth where she was nearly equaling Suter.

She carried Chandler's home county of Woodford 1,360 to 841. She snowballed Suter in Franklin county, seat of Chandler's political operations, with 5,683 to 2,293 votes.

Miss Owens, an employee of the Court of Appeals for 23 years, had been appointed clerk by the court after his death. Gov. Chandler had contended he and not the court had the power to appoint O'Connell's successor.

ABSENTEE VOTES IN ELLIOTT ARE LOOKED UP

SANDY HOOK, Ky., May 31—(Special)—Tabulation of Tuesday's voting in Elliott's 14 precincts was completed Thursday afternoon here, but Friday morning when commissioners prepared to count the absentee ballots a representative of Ralph N. Walker, close contender for Commonwealth Attorney, objected to the counting of the absentee ballots thereupon locked the box of absentee ballots in the bank vault and took the question under advisement.

Election officers said there were 569 absentee ballots in the box.

Objection to counting the absentee ballots was made by Atty. J. Blaine Nickell, of West Liberty, law partner of Welter. Walker had a majority of 23 over W. Major Gardner in Elliott's 15 precincts. Gardner had carried Carter county 251 but was trailing in Morgan by 47 votes at noon's Friday with 13 of the county's 26 precincts tabulated. Thus Gardner was leading by 181 votes in the district's three counties. To be counted yet are 13 precincts in Morgan and the absentees in Elliott and Morgan.

ABSENTEE VOTES NOT COUNTED IN MORGAN PRIMARY

Commission Hints At "Irregularities" In Absent Voting

Refusal by the county election commission to count the absentee ballots became a bone of contention late this week as three local races came to close finishes when tabulation of the precinct voting ended.

By a vote of 2 to 1 the county election commission decided not to count the absentee ballots "because of apparent irregularities."

There are 298 absentee ballots in the two absentee boxes, County Clerk Austin Hill said.

Tabulation of precinct voting, concluded late Friday night, showed three races with majorities under 200 votes. Thus tabulation of the absentee votes may change the outcome of one, two or three races.

In the Commonwealth Attorney race Ralph N. Walter carried Morgan by 243 votes over W. Major Gardner on the basis of precinct voting alone. Gardner carried Carter county 251 and Walter carried Elliott by 19 votes. Thus, on the basis of precinct voting alone, Walter has an 11 vote majority.

However, the absentee votes in Elliott have not been counted. There are 569 absentee votes yet to be counted there.

In the jailers race Sambo Whitt had a majority of 105 over B. H. Patrick on precinct voting alone, and in the tax commissioners race Della Williams had a majority of 188 over Harry Coffey in precinct voting.

At the conclusion of precinct tabulation Friday night Election Commissioners Woodrow W. Barber, Democrat, and Talmadge Nickell, Republican said they had agreed not to count the absentee ballots without a court order. Sheriff Aaron Lykins, third member of the commission, said he favored canvassing the entire voting, absentees included.

Thus the question of counting the 298 absentee ballots will probably go into a court procedure.

COURIER LATE

The Courier is nearly two days late this week in order to carry the tabulated results of Tuesday's primary election. The vote count was not completed until Friday night at 10 o'clock. This week's Courier was printed Saturday morning.

Every farm ought to have at least 3,000 gallons of water in a reservoir (or other storage facility) for immediate use in case of farm fires, rural fire protection experts say.

Other clubs sponsoring this project are the F.H.A. girls and the P.T.A. A committee was named to consult with nurserymen: Mrs. Estelle Nickell, Mrs. Melvin Gardner, Mrs. Eva Nevius, Carl Sinclair and Paul Williams.

Flowers are to be purchased and put in the flower boxes at the town entrances as soon as possible.

Mary Helton was in charge of the program and she gave a most interesting description of some of the patios she has seen in her travels in this country and abroad. She described a patio in San Francisco that could only be reached from an inside entrance. Flowers were used according to the season, poinsettias at Christmas and lilies at Easter.

Another patio was on the Isle of Capri and was decidedly a contrast. It was at a monastery and was attractive because of its simplicity.

The other patio described was in Florence, Italy. It was of interest because it was in the heart of the city and the door had never been seen open. But one day some one was careless and the huge green doors were left open a few moments. A scene of quiet beauty greeted the onlooker. There were long winding walks of crumbling stone, roses and clematis hanging from the verandah, a d large stone pots holding flowers along the inner court yard. A fountain with a statue was on this small scrap of earth hidden in this large city.

Pictures of patios were brought by club members and a potted geranium was given to Charlene Spencer as winner of first prize. Games were played and Lillian Blair won a lovely snack tray.

Refreshments of chiffon cake and punch were served the following members: Mrs. J. C. Nickell, Mary Davis, Mrs. Major Gardner, Mrs. J. Blaine Nickell, Mrs. W. T. Wells, Mrs. Clyde Helton, Mrs. A. P. Gullett, Mrs. Ralph Gullett, Pauline Blair, Mrs. Joe Nevius, Miss Florence McGuire, Mrs. Marvin Ruth, Mrs. Estelle Nickell and the hostesses, Lillian Potter and Lillian Blair.

Plan to buy a larger roast than needed for your family for one meal. Use the extra cooked roast and gravy for a meat pie. Top with a rich biscuit crust to which chopped green parsley has been added.

Ezel School Junior Conservation Club

By Otis Murphy Principal Ezel High School

As of this writing, about ten members of the Ezel Junior Conservation Club plan to attend the summer camp provided by the Department of Fish and Wildlife, located on beautiful Cumberland Lake. This is one of the largest boys' sports camps in the United States. This camp is located on the lake just West of Monticello. The camp is open throughout most of the summer and accommodates a different group of boys each week until near the end, and the last weeks are given over to the girl members of Junior Conservation. The organization is open to either boys or girls.

To be eligible to attend this camp, a boy or girl must be a member of a Junior Conservation Club and attend monthly classes which are held at schools. The cost for transportation, meals, room and use of all equipment is only $7.50 for the entire week. This even includes fee for insurance.

During the week classes are held in gun safety, archery, first aid, swimming, nature study, motor boating, rowing and casting. All equipment is furnished by the Camp and there are movies in the evening, shown out in the open.

I attended this camp last year with a group of our boys and as I observed the instruction given was excellent. The purpose of this camping program is to make available to boys and girls an opportunity to become acquainted with the outdoors, to develop an appreciation for them and to be able to use and not abuse these heritages in a safe enjoyable manner.

As I understand it parents are always welcome to drop by the Camp while their boy or girl is there between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. and visit the Camp.

I do not know at this writing if a time for a boy or girl to year schedule and the most desirable time for the boys is between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. and visit the Camp.

Camp has been opened to boys and girls, over 50,000 have attended during the last 12 years without a major accident, which certainly speaks well for the personnel who supervise the Camp.

This year I have been told by Mr. David Adams, our Conservation Officer, that the boys of Morgan County who are going to Camp will leave the morning of June 3, and will return June 8.

I do not know at this writing when the girls will go to Camp. When the girls go to camp they are chaperoned by lady teachers and the wives of the district supervisors. Transportation, I have been informed, will be by school bus and the Ezel boys will be met at the Ezel school by Mr. David Adams or me at once.

The above photo shows "The Good Shepherd" window in the West Liberty Methodist Church, which was chosen by The Progressive Farmer magazine as "the most beautiful and suitable rural church window in the South" in a recent contest conducted by that magazine.

The magazine sent John McKinney, associate editor and staff photographer, to West Liberty last fall to take color photographs of the window for use in the magazine. The pictures were carried in the May issue of the magazine and showed the beautiful color, design and workmanship in the stained glass. Also pictured were the windows of "The Comforter" and "Jesus In The Temple."

The Methodist church, located at the corner of Main and Prestonsburg streets, was built in 1913. However, some of the early settlers were of Methodist faith and worshiped in a frame structure on Main street that was destroyed by fire. In recent years the red brick of the present building has been painted white.

Each of the six stained glass windows was installed as a memorial at the time the church was erected.

A LOOK AT THE CLUBWOMEN IN TOWN IN 1919

We knew that the womenfolk (bless 'em) had played an important part in civic projects down through the years, but not until we looked through the minutes of an old woman's club book did we know that they took it onto themselves to "man" a bucket brigade in West Liberty in the event a fire broke out.

The minutes of the secretary's book of 1919 reveal that the first woman's club was organized in West Liberty that year. Miss Josephine McGuire was secretary-treasurer of the club (and the recorder of many interesting projects undertaken). Other officers were: president, Mrs. J. R. Kendall; vice president, Mrs. L. Y. Redwine.

In the minutes of the Oct. 14 meeting (with Mrs. Redwine), Miss McGuire wrote: "It was voted that each member pay the sum of 17c dues at once to Miss J. McGuire so she may be able to send in the sum of five dollars, the amount due from the club, to headquarters before Nov. 1st."

The Oct. 14 meeting proved to be an eventful one, for it was recorded that an outline should be published in the local paper calling attention to the public that "we should have better protection in the way of fire drills." It was further stated that "each household be provided with a bucket of water placed in a convenient place, each to carry a bucket of water to the fire and help extinguish it." Each member present stated her willingness to provide such bucket and be prepared for such emergency. Mrs. Kendall appointed herself to interview Prof. Wilson as to fire drills in the school building, also fire escapes. A committee was appointed to call on the Town Board while in session and request that they provide the town with a suitable ladder to be used in case of fire.

The following members paid dues of 17 cents for the year 1919: Mrs. L. Y. Redwine, Mrs. J. H. Sebastian, Mrs. J. P. Oney, Mrs. Albert Hales, Mrs. C. C. Maxey, Mrs. A. P. Gullett, Miss M. Johnson, Miss J. McGuire, Mrs. W. W. McGuire, Mrs. J. R. Kendall, Miss Sarah Seitz, Mrs. Hadden, Miss Combs, Miss Whittinghill, Miss Mot Walsh, Miss Jennie Phillips, Mrs. Mattie Oakley, Miss Lula Walsh, Miss Robinson, Mrs. Addie Walsh, Mrs. T. H. Caskey, Mrs. Charles Franklin, Mrs. D. R. Keston, Mrs. J. H. Hadden, Mrs. Nettie N. Carter, Mrs. Nancy Turner, Mrs. Henry Cole, Mrs. A. O. Allison, Mrs. Genoa Archibald.

Others mentioned in the minutes of the secretary's book include Mrs. Maude McMann, Mrs. Floyd Arnett, Mrs. Baldwin, Mrs. Luther Blair, Mrs. Combs, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. W. G. Blair, Mrs. Everett Mathis, Mrs. Cottle.

Another project of importance to clubwomen of West Liberty in 1919 was a public restroom for women. Some trouble was experienced in finding a location for the restroom, though the supplies had been made available, and the book records that "several of the women spoke of the wonderful good it would have done if it had been possible to establish the restroom before court so many women from the country came to court and really suffered, there being no place for them to go. The stores were crowded with men and they did not feel like sponging on their friends in town."

Despite the concern of clubwomen for the plight of women visiting in town, no room was made available for a public restroom, and the committee in charge was dismissed.

During the year a meeting room was located at the Christian church, a reading room was prepared, and a community Christmas tree set up in the Methodist church lot.

One meeting was held without a program, which was postponed due to the inclemency of weather, but the refreshment of carrot pudding were served "as part of the program on home economics that would not keep over till the next meeting."

Such was the order of the day for clubwomen in West Liberty in 1919. Then, as today, members of the Woman's Club worked on many projects that paved the way for community pride and progress.

The Woes of a "Guy" On His First Birthday

"These pictures just go to show you what can happen to a guy on his first birthday," might be the complaint of Billy Walker Haney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Haney of West Liberty, as he mutters between sobs while getting his first haircut.

Billy Walker might also have gone further in his tirade explaining the woes that can befall a one-year-old by revealing that "Mama was for having it whacked off and over with a long time ago so as not to spoil my first birthday. . . . But Daddy was sure if we waited it would curl! (I think he actually wanted me to have long curls like Diana Jo) . . . When Ed (Ed Dennis, he's my barber) started cutting, Mama slipped around to the back of the chair and looked at my hair and then said to Ed, 'I do declare, I believe this child's hair has begun to curl!'. . . . At just about that instant Ed gave a snip! snip! and it was over—Elvis Presley sideburns and all. . . . Oh, well, such is a man's life."

"Mama and Daddy made it up to me later by inviting John Steven Terrell and Joan Irene Amynx to our house to play with me and eat ice cream and cake and sip lemonade. . . . And, you know what! Joan Irene thought my new haircut looked swell!"

'PORTRAIT' OF A GRAND LITTLE LADY

By Gladys Wheeler

(Mrs. Wheeler of 2138 Lawn- dale, Detroit, Mich., is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alden Stacy of West Liberty and a granddaughter of Mrs. Louise Watson, who is the subject of her story. Mrs. Wheeler frequently writes special features for The Courier.)

Ordinarily, at the mere mention of a steady stream of visitors most people would be exasperated. But such is common occurrence at the home of pretty Louise Watson, age 30, where she lives with her daughter, Hazel at 1564 Boardman Poland Road, Youngstown, Ohio.

Although Louise herself was fond of travel long before she moved away from her native Kentucky about 30 years ago, and having traveled considerably, she seldom ventures far afield these days. But from her livingroom windows can be seen a peaceful rolling field with tall trees in the distance, which is quite reminiscent of a Kentucky landscape.

Louise was born at Caney (she still refers to the area as Brushy Fork) in Morgan County, Kentucky, October 14, 1867. In a family of eleven children she was the ninth child born to her grandfather Benton's eldest child, the Rev. William Benton, a Baptist minister and school teacher, and the former Sirriss Jane Martin. She was christened Charlotte Louise Frances Anne Benton, in honor of four of her aunts, two on her father's side of the family and two on her mother's side. "A name for a queen," someone said.

But Louise is not one of those "I recall when individuals. . . . No, born with a pioneering spirit, she'd much rather pursue some more immediate subject: operating the mangle, making the beds, seeing that the closets or that the kitchen is in order; or in general simply pushing aside any attempt to be ushered into an easy chair. "Take away my work," she says, "is to take away my life."

During the warmer months she loves to stroll among the flowering plants. (The house is set in three acres of beautifully kept lawn, trees and shrubs), and eventually make her way back to the vegetable patch. "Just to watch the garden grow."

Down through the years her deepest satisfaction has been one of planning, developing, improving and making the most of any resources relative to her home and community. At Caney, even yet, is evidence of her keen logic: the remains of houses she was instrumental in building, even apple tree she set that still bear fruit.

Be inquisitive if you wish about anything which might have happened before the turn of the century, or after, and she will listen patiently, and give you an answer if it is something about which she is familiar. But she would much prefer talking about you, your accomplishments, or hear how the children are coming along.

Speaking of her grandparents, two of Morgan County's earlier settlers, she can tell some delightful anecdotes relating to their lives, and she recalled that both families had the same unique distinction: in that a town was developed on land they each owned.

The Thomas Benton family owner of the land at Caney, Ky., and the Andrew (Andy) Martin family owner of the land at Cannel City, Ky.

She remembers the old home sites and the houses in which her grandparents lived. Both houses were constructed of logs exactly alike: two large rooms joined by a large central hallway through which one must enter to get inside. In each room was a huge fireplace, the chimneys standing on the outside at either end of the long buildings. She remembers too, the grist mill that belonged to her grandfather Martin, and that it stood near the Griffith Branch at Cannel City about on the spot where the Terrill house was later built, where everyone in riding or walking distance came to get his "turn of corn" ground.

The school that Louise attended three to four months of the year was a windowless one room log cabin, and she remembers especially that it was awfully close to the waters edge at the bend in the creek, about in the rear of where Reed Hotel was later built at Caney. There, on cool days, she helped to gather twigs from the willow swamp to start a fire in the schoolroom's huge fireplace.

Her favorite game then? Shooting marbles. "Pretty good at hitting the king man, too!" she laughs.

But she is much more fascinated discussing a recent hair-do, finding out what is new in ladies dress fashions, or reading the daily paper. "Read all I can," she said, "to try and keep up with what is going on." But the Bible is her favorite literature and she has read it through several times.

At the age of sixteen Louise decided to learn the basic principals of costuming and became a designer in every phase of the work. Understanding body contour was a natural insight, and putting together a personalized creation helped to solve many a girl's dress problem. She still prefers to design her own clothes.

"This way" can have what I want," she said.

At one time, with her late husband, Jack Watson, she took up photography. One of her cherished treasures is an old album with pictures of her family from away back.

Her family numbers five generations: Louise; her children; 23 grandchildren; 44 great grandchildren, and 22 great-great grandchildren.

Each day begins anywhere from 8 to 9 in the morning, depending on the weather. One glass of water, a dish of oatmeal and one cup of coffee. She never deviates.

Through the years she says she has learned one thing: "Do not expect everything to be perfect all at once; just keep aiming ahead and hope all will be perfect." To her offspring she preaches with sincerity, "Remember this, that we come from a wonderful family!"

IT'S LOCUST YEAR AGAIN

That humming noise that seems to pervade the very air is not made by bees, birds, sirens or the like. This is locust year, which should be enough said.

However, considering the infrequent visits of our winged friends, perhaps more should be said of them.

Sometimes called the cicada (pronounced si-ka-da), the locust is well known for arriving generally one year out of every 17, and according to the hums and whines, this is the year.

There are different types of locusts, but seldom does one bother to make a distinction. Locusts have a nymphal period of from 13 to 17 years, which accounts for their long absences.

Locusts are not welcome guests, for they not only damage shrubbery and trees but foretell the future insofar as war is concerned.

They burrow inside small twigs of shrubs and trees and lay their eggs. This cutting into the stems weakens branches so much that often the branches die. Locusts cut only into smaller twigs, seldom attacking large trees or tree limbs.

"Fortune-tellers" that they are, this year's visitors have on their wings the "W," which according to old-timers, means there will be a war, and there usually is. When the locusts cry "Pharaoh," the old-timers will tell you it was a warning of the plague locusts sent on the Egyptians when Pharaoh would not let the Israelites go to the promised land.

And, ladies, it is not the female that makes all the noise. The male locust emits those prolonged shrill notes by vibrating membranes of special sound organs.

Larvae of the locust go into the ground, and in the case of the 17-year-locust, takes that many years to develop.

In a broad sense, a locust is any grasshopper of the Acrididae family. Some of the species are considered good food in Eastern countries, and canned grasshopper is available in some American cities, including Louisville.

If the winged visitors start doing too much damage in this area, maybe the best way to rid the section of them would be to boil or roast a few. We think maybe a locust barbecue would be the ultimate in outdoor living one reads so much about these days.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING UP

Although the advent of television brought about a large outlay of money from manufacturers and producers, it is interesting to note that national advertisers invested a record $737,000,000 in the newspapers of the United States last year.

According to semi-official tabulations, the 1956 total was over six percent above the total spent for newspaper advertising in 1955. General advertising—all national advertising except automobiles—increased 12.5 percent last year.

Ball and Hardin Win In Lawrence

LOUISA, Ky., May 31—Nile Ball, Democrat, and Jack Hardin, Republican, will oppose each other in November for County Judge in Lawrence county.

Ball won the Democratic nomination with a vote of 861 over Nelson Swann with 834 and G. F. Smith with 757.

Jake Jordan of Louisa won the Democratic nomination for Sheriff over Paul Young of Glenwood by a vote of 1684 to 1002. John Paul Prince of Dennis won the Republican nomination for Sheriff with 1139 votes over Andy New with 729 and Ed Fyffe with 538.

Dan Ball defeated Howard Moore for the Republican nomination for County Attorney 1882 to 527.

Other Democrat winners are Pete Jordan for circuit clerk; John Holbrook for jailer and Bert Thompson for coroner. Republican nominees are Nova Wellman for circuit clerk; Estill Carter for jailer and Ed Preston for coroner.

BIRTH OF SON

Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Greene of Green announce the arrival of a son born Thursday, May 23rd at the Kings Daughters Hospital in Ashland. The baby weighed 8 pounds and 4 ounces and has been named Ronald Leo.

NOTICE

The office of the Morgan County Health Department will be closed Monday June 2nd in observance of Confederate Memorial Day.

Automobile advertising was down in 1956 from a record year 1955 by about 8.6 percent. Practically every other field showed an increase in newspaper advertising, with groceries leading the jump in the general category by 97 percent over 1955.

All of which seems to prove that the newspaper is still the backbone of the advertising world, constituting a permanent record which housewives may keep and study—as with grocery prices—and which can continue to work for the advertiser long after his message is first seen by the reader.

TOP PRICES QUOTED

City people who claim prices of farm products are high enough to make farmers rich should know that they often read only top prices. Headlines in newspapers may say hogs sell for $19.80, which a few of them do. But many of them sell away down from that figure, probably down to $13. Top cattle may have commanded $26.50, as they did once recently, but the bulk of them brought $13 to $16. Read the fine print to know just what prices are.

THE FARM PROGRAM

Hershel D. Newsom, master of the 850,000-member National Grange, has called for a re-examination and re-evaluation of governmental farm programs which, he said, promise no sound or lasting solution of a steadily worsening farm-income situation. The five-year decline in farm prices and income, interrupted only for a few months in early 1956, coupled with steadily rising costs of production, has weakened agriculture and created a serious national problem, Newsom said.

The Grange leader says that "attempts in recent years to solve the farm income problem by lowering price supports for most farm commodities have largely failed, because that route is basically unsound in theory and impractical in practice."

"The theory has been that lower farm prices would increase consumption and reduce production, thus balancing supplies with demand, which would bolster farm income. Yet today the farm parity ratio equals the lowest level since before World War II, and rural purchasing power has re-established its downward trend, in decided contrast to the status of nonrural America."

CURE FOR INFLATION

According to a correspondent, a sure cure for inflation is for everybody to buy less, instead of more. He adds that it need be only a little less, if enough people cooperate. Also they might limit their buying to what they could pay for, either now or in the future. Unrestrained credit has encouraged families to live beyond their means, to buy things they don't need and probably can never use. Children in such families are brought up to think nothing of debt, but to demand more and more. They laugh about the national debt and refuse to believe it could become another form of slavery.

LAND PRICES UP

Economists and other persons who argue that land sells according to productive value should know that land has been going up while prices of farm products have been dropping. Farm land prices have risen about 15 percent since 1951, while farm products have dropped 25 percent since 1951. There are said to be many reasons for this peculiar condition. Farmers themselves are buying additional land, instead of risking their money in stocks, bonds, city real estate and town stuff. They are playing as safe as possible, some of them remembering what happened after World War I. Then there is belief that in the long run land will pay better, since population is increasing and more people are living in cities and towns.

YOCUM
(By Cassie Lewis)

May 20—Onyx Lewis and sons Gary and Mervin of Ashland came Saturday bringing their power mower to mow the cemetery.

They were joined in this work by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lewis and daughter Janet. The cemetery was fenced four years ago and later sowed in grass. We are pleased to know those of a distance are interested in the upkeep of the community cemetery.

Onzie mowed and raked the cemetery last fall. The grass was also limed and fertilized. Several new monuments have been erected the past three years, and we are trusting that relatives of the remaining unmarked graves can soon erect markers to those graves.

A graduation party was given in honor of Miss Lois Faye Engle Friday night at the home of Miss Mildred Wilbur. Games were played and refreshments of cake and Faye was presented a nice gift from her teacher and Sunday school class. Faye is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Onzie Engle of Yocum and plans to enter Morehead College this fall.

MORGAN FARMERS AT LAMB MARKET

The lamb market has opened strong and looks like it will be a good or better market than last year. Fat lamb producers using suggested practices in fat lamb production have lambs ready to go whenever they think the market is right. Wool prices are up twenty-five percent above last year and in addition to this the government incentive wool payment which is paid through the local ASC office is still in effect.

All growers are urged to take their receipts to the ASC office and all lambs which are sold to process buyers through regular market buyers will also turn in their lamb receipts to the local ASC office and after all lambs and wool has been sold this year the government incentive price will be paid to the grower on wool which has come from marketed lambs as well as that sheared by the grower. The growers must turn in the receipt. This is a good way to keep them from getting lost.

The Pilot Western Ewe Sheep Program was started in Morgan county in 1954 with five flocks totaling 97 heads of western ewes. At present there are good flocks of western ewes in almost every community of the county, and farmers interested in additional income will have the opportunity to visit their neighbor's flock at any time. Because of the shortage of these western breeding ewes which will shear twice as much wool as the old native ewes has and will produce almost twice as many pounds of lamb and produce early lambs when the market is high and because of lack of fencing and the lack of experience with sheep as well as high labor cost on ranches sheep have always been one of the very best enterprises.

The County Agent and other sheep farmers will assist any farmer in locating desirable types of ewes at a reasonable price. Recently Lonnie Click, who is a teacher in the Vocational Agricultural Training Program, assisted Wyck Smith in purchasing 54 outstanding Montana black-faced yearling ewes.

The County Agent has held several sheep shearing training schools over the county to teach the Australian quick shearing method. This is the fastest method and also the method which keeps the wool clip together and in the best possible condition. However some farmers prefer to use the old method where they tie the sheep and this method is alright, but the easiest way for each individual person to do the job is the method which should be used.

The supply of western ewes will be short this year, and they should be on the farms by the middle of July for early lambing. Either yearling white-faced ewes or yearling black-faced of several types can be used with good results. Breeding ewes can be ordered in carload lots directly from the West or can be purchased from several sheep dealers.

Any calls to these brokers may be placed collect and anyone interested in securing good quality breeding ewes and rams can call Sherwood 3-3085 or write the County Agent or any of the other Agricultural Agencies, the Commercial Bank or the Licking Valley Courier office.
